Women Empowerment Cell

Interview with

Suman. R

Founder, Managing Trustee, "Hope & Light"

Vasanti. K :- Can you briefly explain about your organization Hope and Light?

Hope and Light India Foundation is an non-government organization. Our vision is work on building a better tomorrow through education and technology. Our approach is to build strategic initiatives that will help advance our work such as : empowering women and girls through our scholarship and apprentice program initiatives. In addition, we promote the mental health and well being of underprivileged children through our spread the joy initiatives.

Shruthi :- What factors motivated you to make a shift in your career, i.e. from being an employee to a founder of an organization.

The motivation behind the first shift in the career from an employee to a co-founder was to work on new challenges and cutting edge technologies. Being a computer engineer by qualification and having worked ten years in various software companies, co-founding a software services company was an exciting growth opportunity both at a personal and professional level. The second shift from IT to a NGO was motivated by the strong desire to 'make a difference and pay it forward' by making a real and positive change in the community.

Ranjitha :- Can you give a picture of the scenario of the area in which you are working?

Hope and Light intends to partner with colleges for Scholarship programs for girls like the one recently held in APS. In addition, our foundation also works with orphanages to alleviate education through technology. We recently concluded a project where we worked with Byju's education-for-all program to provide six tablets loaded with Byju's content from grade 6 to grade 10 to a girls orphanage to help them understand the subjects and study better.

Harshitha :- With your previous background, what is the level of empowerment in the first world?

By first world, if the reference is towards advanced economics like the US and UK, the comparison between them and an economy like India is not straightforward as they have their own set of challenges and a different cultural background. There is no one level of empowerment as there are various issues. Hence, there are various statistics that are available to understand where the different countries stand on empowerment. For example: If one of the issues like gender inequality is considered, we can look at statistics from the World Economic Forum's gender gap report - 2023. According to which, Iceland is the most gender-equal country. However, the most important thing is to remember India is making steady progress in education and basic health indicators have improved. Equal economic opportunities is still being extensively worked on by the government and various NGOs.

Arpitha:- What are the ingredients of empowerment?

This is a very good question. Women empowerment is a broad area. Women encounter inequality in many areas like education, financial, health and medical, and political participation.

Empowerment in simple terms means that women are aware of their rights, determine their own choices and utilize their rights to make better decisions for themselves as well as their families. The more indepth answer is women empowerment can be categorized into five main areas – social, educational, economic, political and psychological. Progress in all these areas are required for inclusive and equitable society

Ranjitha :- Are you happy or hopeful of the actions & initiatives of the Government?

We are on the right path, Government and several NGOs are extensively on this issue. There are several schemes from the government for women like Beti Bachao Beti Padhao Scheme - to help survival and education of a girl child, Pradhan Mantri Jan Dhan Yojana (PMJDY) - helped women get bank accounts which in turn helped in the financial inclusion of women in rural areas, NSDC - has skill development and vocational training programs specifically targeted for women

Tanushree:- What can society or social milieu do to help girls & women and underprivileged families?

As a society, there are several individuals as well as NGOs which are working on the causes like girls' education, prevention of violence against women, human rights and alleviation of poverty. This will help us to break barriers and progress into an equitable society. The main goal that we should be working towards is that all the schemes and initiatives reach as many deserving individuals as possible.

Harshitha :- Do you suggest any proactive / efforts from the non-empowered?

There is a persian adage, 'This too, shall pass' meaning circumstances are transient in nature and to not give up hope during bad times. In addition, focusing on education for the children and reaching out to the government or NGOs to get better solutions to problems will help make a difference.

Arpitha :- How easy is it to start an NGO?

It is not a question of easy or difficult. Everything in life comes with its own set of challenges. It's the question of purpose. A definite 'Why' behind any action is a necessity to get it done. More than all the legal formalities to start an NGO, the main challenge with any NGO is fund raising or generating revenue(social entrepreneurship). There will be a considerable impact on the NGO initiatives without enough funds.

Shruthi :- Do you have suggestions for educational institutions as to how they can empower their girl students and how they can be change promoters in the community around?

Educational institutions can help bridge the gender gap in the sector by ensuring meritorious girls get the education that they deserve. Additional focus on skills and knowledge through training, summer internships will also help the girls get ready for a successful career.
